

An aerial photograph of a city, likely Bukhara, Uzbekistan, during sunset. The city is filled with traditional Islamic architecture, including numerous domes and minarets. The buildings are made of light-colored stone or brick. In the foreground, there's a large, ornate building with blue and white tilework. The sky is a warm orange and yellow. Overlaid on the image are several text elements: "feed up" in yellow and white, a red circle containing "up", a white "X", and "UZBEKISTAN" in white with a wavy underline.
